Center for Puerto Rican Studies Library and Archives

Call For Proposals - Deadline: April 21, 2023

The Joint Mini-Conference (JMC) brings together presenters from the National Associations of Librarians of Color (NALCos), the American Indian Library Association (AILA), Asian Pacific American Librarians Association (APALA), Black Caucus of the American Library Association (BCALA), Chinese American Librarians Association (CALA), and REFORMA, the National Association to Promote Library and Information Services to Latinos and the Spanish Speaking.

The Joint Mini-Conference has traditionally been a free, full-day event open to librarians, library staff, and others as an opportunity to network and exchange information about library services, collections, and projects that serve newcomers and underserved populations in our communities.

Since the events that sparked a racial awakening in the US in 2020, libraries have focused more on creating welcoming and inclusive spaces, advocating for equitable access to information, fostering civic participation and economic opportunity, and ensuring literacy and lifelong learning. This year's theme, "Making a Difference: Engaging Communities of Color," aims to highlight what libraries around the country have been doing to engage communities of color, advocate for greater equity, and combat racism and xenophobia through library programming, outreach, and collections.

Presenters are encouraged to describe, from their own perspective, ways in which their work has successfully:

- Engaged communities of color through programming, outreach, partnerships, or by providing services that support and empower communities of color
- Provided collections and programs that connect more deeply with Black, Latino, Asian, Indigenous, and other communities of color, and which accurately and authentically reflect the cultural perspectives of these diverse communities
- Created an inclusive library by increasing outreach and engagement to under-served populations and actively engaging with members of these populations
- Expanded awareness and adherence to a more equitable, diverse, and inclusive workplace by engaging in more intentional recruitment and development of employees from underrepresented groups
- Promoted training opportunities for library personnel that give them the skills needed to provide effective services to diverse populations

PRESENTATION FORMAT:

- The RNE Joint Mini-Conference program will be held from 11am-4pm
- Presentations will run approximately 25 minutes each, followed by a 5-minute question-and-answer period. Time will be finalized once the conference schedule is completed.
